CASE HISTORY

A nursing school wanted a consistent look to all of their recruiting materials but wanted to have seasonal themes for their activities. Our window promo packs were handed out at recruiting fairs, seminars and at conferences with the school logo and information in the "window" and with seasonal art around the window. The bags were filled with different treats depending on the event (seminars had more snack type treats such as pretzels, while parties had richer treats such as chocolate covered espresso beans). The recruiting fairs frequently used specific color jelly beans to match the school colors.
